way Marriage in Brunswick.

(Special Dispatch to The Timea.)

BLACKSTONE, VA., Nov. 13.—The aftermath of the Drapar-Jones runaway marriage reported yesterday, proved more exciting and interesting than the original event. It appears that after their marriage here last night they drove to the home of the bride's father, Mr. J. W. Jones, in Brunswick county. When they informed him of the step they had taken he took charge of the bride and directed the groom to seek some other roof, which he proceeded to do.

The father took this step from the fact that the bride is not of age. Mr. Jones came to this place to-day to seek legal advice. His counsel advised him to return home and secure license for his friends among the students.

Mr. Jones seemed very much exercised at the course his daughter had taken, and his friends expressed sympathy for him. It is hoped the matter will end with the carrying out of the advice given Mr. Jones by his attorney.

Edwards Resolution Has Clearing Effect.

PLAN COULD BE IMPROVED

Members Talk for Corporation Committee Instead of Cumbersome Joint Body as at Present-Exposition People After Money-Notes

The legislative situation was cleared up to some extent yesterday by the adoption of Mr. Edwards' resolution assigning the sections of the new Constitution to the various standing committees of the two houses, but some members do not think now that this was the best thing to do. It amounts to but little, if any more than the execution of the rules of the body. requiring officers to pass upon oills to their proper committees.
